

About Us

Background

Calleo's head office is located just north of Toronto, in Canada, easily accessible by major highways and only 15 to 20 minutes away from Pearson International Airport.

Calleo is a business and technology products and services company, with a strong focus in the solutions space that incorporates:

- document & form capture,
- automated form processing
- document recognition,
- optical character recognition
- intelligent data recognition
- optical mark recognition
- document imaging & scanners
- document workflow

We assist clients like yourselves to reduce paper, and decrease the inefficiencies caused by paper based processing. Our solutions and services are considered as the LEAN implementation of the backoffice infrastructure. All our solutions are best breed technical solutions, with each done with proven technologies that verifiably resolve the 'paper issue'.

Calleo was founded in 2002 as a technology services company, and has transformed itself into a company that helps others towards resolving the 'increasing amount of paper' issue that industry has become 'used too'. We live and breathe industry best practices in document capture, forms processing, document recognition & document workflow management.

We have also partnered with Abbyy as Certified Abbyy Value Added Resellers because we believe they carry the best document capture engine in today's market. You will probably notice that our custom developed ERP connector solutions use Abby's suite of products as the form capture engine.

Calleo's brings a sense of innovation and freshness to each engagement. First and foremost we are business people who not only believe that our solutions will create better business efficiencies within your company, but will also help towards reducing the amount of paper within your company and thus leaving a better legacy to future generations.

Our management team brings a wealth of business and technology expertise to the table, which is ultimately a tremendous benefit to your company. We have a history of building solid systems, in various vertical industries, using well known and structured project management methodologies.

We also have the ability to communicate in multiple languages, including Spanish and Japanese.

You are in good hands with us!

The name Calleo, by the way, is derived from the Latin meaning "knowledge through experience". Mission and Values

We wish to help our environment and ultimately future generations by reducing the amount of paper that companies are producing. As a bi-product of the paper reduction efforts, we will be able to reduce your business inefficiencies allowing your staff to spend more of their time on activities that are better aligned with your core business objectives.

You will always know where you stand with us - integrity and honesty are woven into the fabric of our people, work, and our business partners.
